

V. REFERENCES

We consulted several published reports through online research at various stages of this report. The following are some examples of the resources we found particularly useful.

American Community Survey. www.census.gov.

Current Population Survey. www.bls.gov.

Brown, G., and F. Pintaldi. 2006. A Multidimensional Approach in the Measurement of Underemployment. Statistical Journal of the United Nations Economic Commission for Europe, v. 23, n. 1/2006.

Center for Business and Economic Research. 2005. Underemployment in Alabama Workforce Investment Advisory Areas. University of Alabama.

International Labour Organization (ILO). Key Indicators of the Labour Market (KILM), Sixth Edition Software and Related Publications and Materials, at www.ilo.org.

Oklahoma Department of Commerce. August 2009. Far Eastern OK Labor Force Study, available at www.okcommerce.gov.

The Pathfinders. Various underemployment studies conducted by this consulting firm.

U.S. Department of Labor. June 2008. The Unemployment Rate and Beyond: Alternative Measures of Labor Utilization. Issues in Labor Statistics, Summary 08-06, at www.bls.gov.

U.S. Department of Labor. April 2009. Ranks of Discouraged Workers and Others Marginally Attached to the Labor Force Rise During Recession. Issues in Labor Statistics, Summary 09-04, at www.bls.gov.

Wilkins, R. 2004. The Extent and Consequences of Underemployment in Australia. Melbourne Institute Working Paper No. 16/04, Victoria, Australia.

Yamagami, T. 2002. Utilization of Labor Resources in Japan and the United States. Monthly Labor Review (www.bls.gov).