

RESULTS FROM JUNE 13, 2011

Today, we began work a little before 7:00 am. Our pesky mole had continued his work in the Feature 119 units.

During the day today, students began to apply the training from last week – below Alex and Richard use the transit to take measurements on their units.

We continued work elsewhere, but little to report for today except continuing to work through the plowzone everywhere.